The object of the resolution is to make the agricultural bureau a more active agency in recuperating and publishing the resources of the State, and virtually ends the functions of the Immigration Bureau.

The Supreme Court was again crowded today. C. Richardson Miles, Esq., opened the argument for the respondents. He spoke for two hours and was followed by Chamberlain, who spoke for more than two hours. The ar gnment was concluded this evening, Corbin speaking for an hour, followed by Miles, who spoke for half an hour. The court adjourned at eight P. M.

It is reported on good authority that the Governor will refuse to issue the bonds on the first of January to the billholders of the Bank of the State, according to the provisions of the act of September last. It is said that it is his duty to carry out the spirit of that law which requires that the assets of the bank shall first be placed in his hands.

WASHINGTON.

THE SUITS OF THE GOVERNMENT AGAINST FRA HER, TRENHOLM & CO .- HOW THE MATTER STANDS-RECONSTRUCTION COMMITTEE-HAY-TIEN BLOCKADE-SUPREME COURT.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DAILY NEWS.]

Washington, December 21 .- It is stated that the Government will proceed to attach the property of Fraser, Trenholm & Co. on a judgment for $500,000, and that the proceed ings will commence at the opening of the new year. The statement heretofore made to the effect that large sums were due the late Confederate Government by French and English firms, is now believed to have been a mere pretence. The Confederacy had drawn its last dollar in money, and about all that could be found to which the United States Government could lay claim, was such property as had not been shipped, or which being shipped had not been delivered prior to the surrender, and was ordered back by the parties who had shipped it. Much of that property had had its marks removed to prevent indentification, though some of it has since been discovered by reason of disputes arising among the parties concerned. In the suits of the United States vs. Fraser, Trenholm & Co., it is claimed that there was an agreement that judgment should be confessed for a reasonable amount by the defendants, and it is said that it is in consequence of their failure to do this fact.

In view of these circumstances, the taxpaying community have a right to call on the Governor, Treasurer, Comptroller-General and Legislature to review the subject, and to require all parties holding the bills of the bank to prove that they were issued, bona fide, before the 1st of January, 1861, and not subsequently reissued as a part of the loan to the Confederate Government. It that fact cannot be established, then every bill ought to call on the Governor, Treasurer, Comptroller-General and Legislature to review the subject, and to require all parties holding the bills of the bank to prove that they were issued, bona fide, before the 1st of January, 1861, and not subsequently reissued as a part of the loan to the Confederate Government. It that fact cannot be established, then every bill or the subject, and to require all parties holding the bills of the subject, and to require all parties holding the bills of the subject, and to require all parties holding the bills of the loan to the Government. It that fact cannot be established, then every bill ought to call on the Governor, Treasurer, Comptroller-General and Legislature to review the subject, and to require all parties holding the bills of the bank to prove that they were issued, bona fide, before the 1st of January, 1861, and not subsequently reissued as a part of the loan to the Confederate Government. It that fact cannot be established, then every bill ought to be rejected, and no bond should be issued which the ped had not been delivered prior to the surrenis in consequence of their failure to do this that the government has determined to seek either in Charleston or in England a judgment for $500,000.

[PRESS.] WASHINGTON, December 21 .- The dispatch steamer Tallapoosa has left for Aspinwall. The Reconstruction Committee had the Georgia and Mississippi cases up to-day, but without action adjourned to January 5.

Mr. Seward, in answering a letter from Nev York merchants, says that the government will not protect citizens trading with blockaded Haytien ports. The Supreme Court has decided that awards made by the Secretary of War under a joint resolution, become null and void when the resolution is repealed. The Court has adjourned to January 24, when original actions between States and actions arising under the constitution will be heard. The Republican, of this morning, says that the Senate Judiciary Committee has decided that there is a necessity for Congressional action in reference to Georgia, and will report back Senstor Edmonds' bill with amendments

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS. The act "to authorize a State loan to pay interest'on the public debt," passed by the Legislature on the 26th of August last, authorizes the Governor, Attorney-General and Treasurer to appoint and commission "some responsible bank or banker in the city of New York to act as financial agent of the State." Under that act Mr. H. H. Kempton has been appointed. The loan to be made is for one million dollars. Mr. Kempton will have charge of State bonds to that amount to bring on the market, and receive the money therefor. What the writer desires to know is if the State has been sufficiently guaranteed. Is Mr. Kempton a "responsible banker :" Has he given a bond and for what amount? And who are the sureties on that bond? The writer asks these questions, not from any opposition to Mr. Kempton, whom he does not know, and not towards which he is most favorably inclined; but he does it solely that the public may know if the bonds of the State, to the amount of one

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS.

The Legislature having passed an art to close the operations of the Bank of the State, and authorize the funding of all of the bills issued prior to the first of January, 1861, several questions are thereby suggested which are respectfully submitted to your readers.

When were the bills in circulation issued?
If issued after the commencement of the war, or loaned to the Confederate Government war, or loaned to the Confederate Government (which is a fact known and recognized by both Democrats and Republicans), is the money thus issued or loaned to be paid by the State of thus issued or loaned to be paid by the State of South Carolina?

The fact being indisputable that at least six hundred thousand dollars, and perhaps more, were loaned by the Bank of the State to the Gonfederate Government after the first day of January, 1861, is it intended by the act of the Legislature to redeem these bills?

If so, does not the Fourteenth amendment of the constitution expressly prohibit the payment of any debt contracted to aid the rebellion?

All of these bills, without exception, are dated prior to the 1st of January, 1861, and if the Governor, the Comptroller-General, the Treasurer, or the Legislature, will call before them the officers of the bank, it will be found that every dollar loaned to the Confederate Government was of this issue. The act of the Legislature is therefore clearly unconstitutional, or the constitutional amenoment has itself been the constitutional amenament has itself been the constitutional amendment has itself been regarded as a nullity.

It is well known that in the United States the State banks have issued and reissued and again reissued their own bills, and the law of South Carolina prior to the war required the banks to pay out their own bills instead of the bills of other banks. In the Bank of England, when a bill is once returned, it is forever cancelled; but the coat of engraying and epinting in this countries.

bill is once returned, it is forever cancelled; but the cost of engraving and printing in this country is so enormous as to compel banks to use their bills as long as they hold together.

Such was the kind of currency issued by the Bank of the State of South Carolina to the Confederate Government for the express purpose of sustaining the war, and thousands of soldiers, in 1861 and 1862, received their pay in these bills, dated prior to the first of January, 1861. Does the government of the State intend to pay this war debt? In the face of the Fourteenth amendment how can it do so and be justified? amendment how can it do so and be justified? The act to fund these bills and give bonds to their owners, makes no provision whatever for ascertaining what bills were issued before and after the first of January, 1861, and, as above observed, the date affords no indication of this fact.

Third Day's Proceedings.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.] ABBZVILLE, S. C., December 18.—Conference was opened with prayer by Rev. J. T. Kilgo.

The Bishop took the chair, when the minutes were read and approved.

Rev. C. Betts gave notice that a certain house and lot of land originally given to this body for missionary purposes, was now occupied by a member of the Northern church, pied by a member of the Northern church, who proposes to purchase it. The dolor, Mr. DeSaussure, consenting, it was so ordered, and the papers were signed. The money was ordered to be turned over to the trustees of a church in Sumter Circuit, burned during the war, to aid them in rebuilding.

Revs. F. M. Morgan, Oliver Eady and Joseph Parker were placed on the superpumerary list.

The appeal for Washington-street Church, Columbia. heretofore published in the Advo-cate, was read to the Conference, and the matcate, was read to the conference, and the mat-ter urged upon the membership in a few ap-propriate remarks, by Rev. Wm. Martin. It will be remembered that this church was de-stroyed by the flames of Sherman in his pas-sage through that fated city.

Rev. Dr. Smith offered resolutions of sym-rathy for the strugyling church, pledging the pathy for the struggling church, pledging the co-operation of the ministry in advancing the efforts of their agent, Rev. W. Martin. He spoke in feeling terms of the reminiscences of Mathodism in Columbia, in connection with Revs. J. R. Griffith, J. B. Traywick, J. B. Flatt and J. A. C. Crisp were elected members of the Legal Conference.

Rev. W. A. Gamewell submitted the report of the Board of Managers. "Mark the perfect man,
And behold the upright,

LEVEREIT.—Died, near Celumbia, on the evening of the 30th November, 1888, the Rev. CHARLES EDWARD LEVEREIT, aged sixty-two, in the confidence of a certain faith; in the comfort of a reasonable, religious and holy hope; in favor with God, and in perfect charity with the world. Thus died one who had glorified God in his life, and singularly glorified Him in his death. Of a nature noble, just and upright; self-denying and self-sacrificing to a remarkable degree, conscientious almost to a scrusple, he endeavored "to live" as he would wished to have done when he came to die. Thus prepared, when death came he faced it without qualing, and on taking to his bed, aptly denominated it "his bed of death." declaring that he "s. w nothing on earth worth living for, and greatly desired to die." During months of anguish, his groams were mingled with prayers and hymns night and day. Sometimes the whole night would be thus passed, so that by morning his voice would be hoarse from continued use. The pathetic tone, the pleading look and gesture, the touching application to his own case, during these daily and nightly sacrifices of prayer, were deeply affecting. From first to last he never wivere i in his wish to depart, so that it became evident to those around that this strong desirs came from above. Once, when told he was better, he said, "the will of the Lord be done, for lite or for deash;" but added immediately, "if it were left to me to choose, I would prefer to die." His language of-times resembled Job's; "in the sight of God, said he, I abhor myself, and feel myself to be uching." "I am not afraid to die; I give my soul wholly, solly and entirely into the hands of my blersed Lord and only Saviour, Jesus Christ, I trust only to the werits and death of a crucified Redeemer! I have no doubts nor fears—all is clear." "I his wa's his rely and entirely into the hands of my blessed Lord and only Saviour, Jesus Christ. I trust only to the merits and death of a crucified Redeemer! I have no doubts nor fears—all is clear." This was his repeared testimony throughout his illness. When the time of his d parture was evidently at hand, his children, weeping, drew near his bedside to give the last farewell. As each one kissed him, he put his dying hand on each head, blessed them with a solemn, yet cheerful vo ce, and gave the parting injunction to each, "Meet me in Heaven!" Nearer and nearer drew the hour; the difficulty of breathing had greatly increased, and the expiring pairiarch, whose white locks told plainly the griefs, struggles and sorrows of his past hie, lay sliently gazing upw.rds, as if looking into the v-ry heavens. With a gesture common with him—throughout his illness (when in secret communion with Him whom he adored), arm ex'ended, hand raised and moving, as if pla asing his cause with an unseen and invisible one; with wrapt, int int and piercing look, as though seeing something beyond mortal sight—for a while he thus lay. Mortality, thus adoringly communing with immortality, was a thrilling sight to the awestruck beholders, and a deep silence was always kept by his watchers until this was over. His sufferings were very great, and desirous to know if, when the very relay of deeth were then on him, he still restruck beholders, and a deep silence was always tept by his watchers until this was over. His sufferings were very great, and desirous to know if, when the very pains of death were then on him, he still remained steadfast in his desire to depart, he was asted, "You have often longed to go—if the Massier calls are you now ready?" "Yes," with difficulty he answered, "I am so anxious to go!" Still later, to cheer him, it was ter fully announced to him, 'Your troubles will soon be over; you will soon enter into life!" He faintly but distinctly replied, "You mean Eternal life—ihmk Ged!—I am so glad to go!" Then raising his eyes to Heaven, he cried "Oh, Saviour, make haste! Oh, my Masker, take me, take me!" A few hours later his spirit peacefully took its flight.

So completely had he made ready for the great change, that his own hand-writing appointed the pall-bearers, gave directions for the funeral arrangements, mentioned the spot he wished to be laid, and requested that the hymn, "I would not live alway," be sung at his funeral.

"Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my

NEW YORK, AUGUST 7, 1668.-MR. Forron: Several of your correspondents, very old and respertable no doubt, seem to be wonderfully exercised as to the origin of our PLANIATION BIITERs. So long as these Bitters are all that we represent them to be, we do not know that it makes any difference from whom they come, or from whence they originated; but for the information of the public generally, and old Captain Wentz in particular, we will say that he told the truth, and that these Bitters originated in the West India Island:that many of the ingredients have been favorably used for over a century, but that our combination of Calisaya is entirely new, and our own. The rum and other materials are the same, and, as your correspondent says, a better Sitters and Tonic is not made. THE TRUE MEDICAL DOCTRINE. Nature, when struggling with disease, indicates unmistakably the kind of assistance she requires In cases of nervous weakness and general debility, the feeble pulse, the lack-lustre eye, the attenuated frame, the flacid muscles, the melancholy visage, inform us as plainly as if each organ had a torque, that a medicated stimulant is needed. It does not require the aid of a medical education to understand this dumb appeal for new vigor, from an exhau-ted system. Every reader of these lines can comprehend it just as well as the graduate of a physicians college. Let not this demand of enfeebled nature be neglected. Respond to it promptly by commencing a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITT: RS, a preparation uniting in their highest excellence the properties of a STIMULANT, an IN-VIGORANT, and an ALTERATIVE. Before three days have elapsed, from the taking of the first dose, a marked beneficial change will be manifest in the bodily and mental condition of the patient. The pulse will be stronger and more regular, the eye will begin to lose its dull expression, the muscular and nervous systems to recover their tension, and the spirits to improve. Persevere, and a complete revivification of the depressed animal and mental powers is certain. In cases of dyspepsia and bili ousness, the same salutary results will be obtained. The appetite will revive, the sallowness of the skin disappear, and all the distressing symptoms which ocompany disorders of the stomac's and liver will rapidly subside. The cold of winter often intensifies taese complaints by checking the perspira tory action, by which so much morbid matter is evaporated through the pores in milder weather. and therefore the BITTER, are especially useful to the dyspeptic and bilious at this season.
